SUPREME COURT.—MONDAY, MARCH 31.

MACKINTOSH v. HOWE.

This was an application for a change of venue on an action for slander, arising out of the following allegations:—Mackintosh was a Presbyterian clergyman, and had been working for two years in the Hay district. Recently there had been differences of opinion between him and a section of his congregation, the majority of whom suggested that he should resign, and this he had since done. About the sometime in dispute between the congregation was held at which Howe used the following words:—"The minister (meaning Mackintosh) had adopted certain tactics which were not fair, such as carrying out his own ends, such as would not be tolerated outside his own church." Mackintosh alleged that these words had maintained an action for slander, and had laid damages at £2000. The action had been entered in favour of Sydney, but it was now sought to have it tried at Hay, as otherwise the cost and loss of time would be trifling, as witnesses from Hay to Sydney would interfere with his defence.

An affidavit was read by Mr. Thomas Robertson, solicitor to Mr. Mackintosh, to the effect that the rev. gentleman was now at a place called Carcalbad, about 45 miles distant from the town of Hay; that he was a clergyman of the Presbyterian Church, and a man of intense character, and of strict habits, and in Church matters was almost ultra-Calvinistic; for the two years he had been minister of the Presbyterian Church at Hay, and towards the end of the time several persons of the congregation complained to the presbytery about him. The presbytery investigated the matter, and decided that the charges were groundless, but they advised Mr. Mackintosh to remain owing to there being a split between him and the people. The affidavit went on to state that the proceedings were a large and influential body in the District of Hay, and that no money or other means of defence had raised a fund of promises against Mr. Mackintosh so to seriously embarrass the interests of having the confidence and dispassionately tried by a jury composed of veniae; ones to be seen in the cause.

Dr. W. T. A. Beaumont, court-house, for Mr. Cohen appeared on behalf of the defendant Mr. Andrew Lauchlan Hughes, and Mrs. Hughes, and supplied the costs upon an affidavit which had been made for the taking of certain costs, and the defendant upon certain documents by Mr. W. L. A. Schurlet, a solicitor of the court.

Mr. Gordon appeared to oppose the application.

Mr. Cohen contended that the affidavits in the original examination that Mr. Shorter would render a bill of costs, that he should pay over any moneys belonging to the applicants, and that he should pay the costs and costs of which he had possession. The bill of costs had been examined and taxed, and was now presented and a memorandum delivered on. But Shorter still held a sum of £17 and other property, and it was now sought to recover.

Mr. Gordon contended that the order had always been ready and willing to pay over the money to Andrew Hughes alone applied for, but Shorter properly declined to pay the money over until Mrs. and Miss Hughes joined in the application. It should not be held for these reasons in contention, and therefore it could not be paid over to any one of the parties without the concurrence of the other two. After further argument,

His Honor said it appeared to him that there was no necessity for bringing the matter before the Court, and that the applicants had had to pay the costs at the point raised. He made an order that the costs of the application, and of the taxation, should be met by the applicants.

In International Jurisdiction.—Before his Honor Mr. Justice CUTS.

BROWN AND OTHERS v. BROWNE.

Mr. Salomons, Q.C., Mr. A. H. Simpson, Mr. G. H. Simpson, and Mr. Bruce instructed by Messrs. Dunn and Deane, appeared on behalf of the plaintiffs; Mr. Gregory Walker and Mr. L. Owen instructed by Messrs. Slattery and Hayden appeared for the defendants.

The plaintiffs, Thomas Brisbane Brown, William Smith Deane, and William Lewis, sued as executors and administrators substantially the following terms:—1. John Brown, late of Ballochmyle, Ayr, in the New South Wales, was at the time of his decease possessed of real and personal estate estimated to be worth £200,000. 2. John Brown, late of Ayr, and John Brown, being of sound and disposing mind, memory, and understanding, made his last will and testament, and appointed Thomas Brisbane Brown, Wm. Smith Deane, and Rob. Jas. Hyam executors. 3. On the same date the testator executed a codicil to his will. 4. On July 4, 1885, the testator, being of sound and disposing mind, memory, and understanding, sold and appointed Wm. Clarke to be trustee and guardian in place of Rob. Jas. Hyam. 5. Both the codicils were signed and attested in the manner required. 6. On June 6, 1888, the testator signed an instrument in writing conveying to Thomas Brisbane Brown, William Smith Deane, and Rob. Jas. Hyam, certain stock, premises and lands which had been purchased from a Mr. Wallace. 7. John Brown died at Ayr on 21st, 1888, leaving Mrs. Brown, being then alive. 8. On August 24, 1888, plaintiffs made their application for probate to the will, and on or about November 29 of the same year Margaret Brown entered a caveat against the probate being granted. 9. The said Margaret Brown died intestate on February 8, 1889, and on March 25, 1889, the plaintiffs made a similar application for letters and effects were granted. 10. The plaintiffs allege that probate of the said will and codicils ought to be granted to them as executors, and pray that the same may be granted to them, together with the costs of and incidental to this suit.

The defendant, Pierce McBrien, makes the following allegation paragraphs:—1. I say that 1, the defendant Pierce McBrien, am the administrator of the estate of Margaret Brown, late widow of John Brown, the testator. 2. For part, to the Court of Probate, on the 1, 1889, the plaintiffs were directed to institute proceedings against me as such administrator. 3. The said John Brown was married to Margaret Brown, his wife, Margaret Brown, being then alive. 5. On August 24, 1888, plaintiffs made their application for applying for probate to the will, and on or about November 29 of the same year Margaret Brown entered a caveat against the probate being granted. 7

THE MINISTER OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION ON TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The Hon. J. H. Carruthers, Minister of Public Instruction, delivered an address last evening at the Ryde-road School of Arts. The subject was "The Progress of Education and its Necessity in New South Wales." The address had been postponed from the previous Monday in consequence of the inclemency of the weather. Mr. R. Hogben presided, and there was a large and representative audience, among which were several ladies.

Mr. Carruthers, who was well received, said that the people of this country had a right to know what the system of public instruction carried on by the State, and there could be no doubt but that so far as primary education was concerned, New South Wales compared most favorably with the other countries of the world. Attention was fast disappearing, and it was now recognised as a fact that the State left no means unused to provide every class and every community with the blessings of education of a practical character. The results of the system were being displayed in the direction of severer, more practical, more practical ideas, in the severer growing moral and social conditions of the people, and in the increased zest displayed in the pursuit of higher knowledge, not only for as regarded their secondary and technical education, they could not stand so well in the rear of comparison. Whatever might be the reason, the fact remained that this young and progressive community had not kept pace with the rest in the matter of education of the people. Last year, they had their high schools, Grammar schools, and numerous private colleges and academies, all contributing to their noble university. A great and good work was being done by these institutions, and more assistance by the University itself, which day by day was increasing its sphere of teaching in popular and much-needed directions. There was a great gulf fixed between their Public schools and the University. The State High Schools in Sydney were almost unknown, while the country districts were almost absolutely without any kindred to the Public High schools elsewhere. Of the 240,000 scholars enrolled yearly in the Public schools, not 1 per cent. received the benefit of State higher education, and hardly 1 per cent. (400 in all) thereafter received the education of the University. The private schools catered chiefly to meet the taste or fulfil the wants of a class who had no sympathy with the State system of education. These schools, however, did a certain amount of good, and deserved credit for a small proportion of the Public school children. It was not within his province, nor did he desire to criticise the results of those private schools. He had been credited with an unusual interest in endeavoring to improve the school system. The State in its wisdom had decreed a certain system of primary instruction, to that it had again added an State High schools, which last year had charmed and endowed a University. Those schools were not, by any means, the perfection they could be fostered by their poverty. The state should not allow its intentions in regard to education to be frustrated by poverty. It necessarily was its duty to be free equally in the primary schools, and had received the benefit of Parliament to appropriate a sum to extend that principle to the high seats of learning. He then referred to the Continental efforts in regard to secondary education, and said that there had been a great advance in that direction in England during the last 20 years. Investigation was taking place in primary, secondary, and technical education the old land was making marvellous advances, and must be roused by Australasian rivalry, and keep pace with the times. The necessity for technical education was one to be considered at length. It could be justified on State principles on account of the increased wealth that attached to the industrial development of a country, and because it increased the capacity to appreciate, the economy of its production, and the power of its people to compete with the labour of other countries. Instances of the benefits of technical education in the greatness of England to-day might be attributed to labour skill in the superiority of the goods produced by her competitors elsewhere. The true dignity of labour in the sphere of national life might well be typified when they recalled the names of such workmen as Wedgewood, Stephenson, Watt, Arkwright, Murdoch, and others who had contributed to the dignity of art with the industries of the times. Many labour-saving machines in agriculture owed their birth to America and Canada. He had visited both Wales as a field for technical research, and the wealth of its resources were not referred to. Apart from the local question, there should be an encouragement of local industries, such as butter and cheese. Recently Mr. Lord, of the Technical College, Sydney, and formerly in charge of the Agricultural College in France, had visited the country districts, and dairy centres at his (the speaker's) request, with a view to furnishing the Government with a report on the steps most necessary for further encouragement of dairying. The Government were quite prepared, if circumstances necessary, to introduce model dairies and to employ competitors in order to educate the people in the processes of manufacturing any article calculated to become a staple product of the colony. The cultivation of indigenous timber was dwelt upon, and likewise the tanning industry, which was in a flourishing state, and the old College to revive the languishing industry of silk. The importance of the wine industry was pointed out, and the speaker laid great stress on the necessity among the latest machinery in the manufacture of flour, in order to compete with the Chicago product. Kindergarten instruction was referred to, the speaker remarking that at present the number of pupils under the system in the colony was 1,600, of ages varying from four to eight years. Drawing was now being taught to the pupils of the Public schools, Mr. Wedlinne, from England, was reorganising the work, the object being to teach children to draw just as readily as they could write. New South Wales was the first British community to introduce workshop into the Public schools as part of the training. A workshop had been established at Rockdale, and similar establishments would be started at Newcastle and Kogarah. Such work would also be given in horticulture. A branch college had also been established at Hunter's Hill, the course of shorthand had been taken up, two classes at Kogarah having met with considerable encouragement. Workshops had been created at Ultimo, capable of accommodating thousands. The Technical College would have the best teachers in the world, and would be taught in the best of all places who went to it to gain knowledge. Man, if he desired to do great work with his hands, must have a head and hands. He must fit himself out with some degree of technical knowledge. They had one class doing work for 12 months, and he could guarantee that every lad attending that class had a moveable value. The Government had determined that they would be able to testify that the knowledge gained there had enabled them to free and obtain positions of trust, and increased profit and wealth. The proper labour they had to fight the battle of the world with. It was a shrewd saying that Napoleon made a few guinea watch was remonstrated at the rate of 15s per day. Skilled labour could be competed with if they trained up their children for it. They possessed within but keenness of intellect and quickness of heart. (Loud cheers.)

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Carruthers was accorded a hearty vote of thanks.

Previous to the address of the Minister, Mr. Carruthers presented Ernest Cambridge and Thomas Humphrey with certificates for mechanical drawing.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

A meeting of the committee appointed by a meeting of the unemployed held at the Temperance Hall some time ago was held yesterday afternoon at Mr. Ardill's office. There were present Mr. J. Ardill, in the chair, and Messrs. M. H. Bowmaker, Gardiner, H. C. Cato, J. Salisbury, and O. E. Ardill. It was resolved that in future four meets should be held on the second and fourth nights of the week for the attention of the committee should be devoted to the business of the meeting. It was announced that a number of registry fees had been paid out of the funds to the proportion of 6s each, and that those who had found work for a number of the men. Employment had been found for about 31, the past week for several men, and Messrs. Monsie and Angus expressed satisfaction at the workmen forwarded to them. The committee stated that only five of them were incapable. During last week 800 loaves had been distributed to unemployed, and 6 lbs of meat had been distributed to married men for the support of their families. Great care had been exercised to deal only with serving cases. It was stated that there were not more than 199 genuine persons amongst the unemployed. The committee had the disposition of the railway line at Sutherland (Messrs. Monsie and Angus) notified the number of men required, and the men required if the weather remained as it had been for several weeks past, but that if fine they would require a larger staff and would be acquainted by the committee.

It was suggested by one of the committee that a report should be drawn up with a view to the establishment of self-supporting industries, so as to permanently help a class which would appear to be entirely unknown amongst them. It was shown that if the men could be seen at work as a permanent employer of labour would be in a position to judge whether they were suitable men for employment. Bread and lodging could be supplied in exchange for the work performed, and the utmost endeavours be made to find situations for them at suitable remuneration. It was announced that a gentleman in Sydney stated he was willing to give £100 to the establishment of such an institution, and Mr. Ardill agreed to bring up a report upon the subject, and suggested that a capital of £500 be raised, and that the first industries to be started should be a wood and coal yard, and a beer and packing-case factory. He had had experience in working such industries in connection with one of the institutions, and found them to work very satisfactorily.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

The unsettled state of the weather has compelled the management of the Hawkesbury Race Club to further postpone their autumn meeting for a week, with the understanding that the reunion will again be declared for the 16th and 17th instant.

The selling events at Moorefield yesterday were not remunerative to the sixth, inasmuch as Zealy, who won the Anvil and Stakes, backed a winner, she secured the Pony Selling Race, 25l not realise anything over most prices of 3l and 5l 5s respectively, at which figures they were retained by their owners.

Nominations for the Strathbroke Handicap, Brisbane Cup, and Brisbane Cup, for the autumn of 1890, form the programme for the Queensland Turf Club Autumn Meeting—time, 4 p.m. to-day, and either will be received by the Secretary of the Club, Mr. A. J. C. King-street.

The Wilcannia sportsmen hold their annual race on the 29th proximo.

Easter Monday has been fixed upon by the Bowra committee for their annual race meeting, and an eight-event programme has been drafted for the occasion, with prizes of 20l and upwards in each race. The leading events are the Bowra Handicap, of 50 sovs., and the Tabletop Handicap, of 50 sovs.

The Sydney Turf Club's arrangements for the Metropolitan Stakes and City and Suburban Handicap, in conjunction with the Victoria Racing Club, 1st also and horses left in after that hour must the usual nominations.

The reformation to health of the popular handicapper, Mr. J. A. Scarr, will be hailed with satisfaction by racing men throughout the colonies. The affability and experience of Mr. Scarr, at such an important junctures as the present, are indispensable to good sport.

Candidates for the position of secretary, treasurer, two auditors, and four members of committee of Tattersall's Club must be lodged with the undersigned before 6 p.m. to-day, with the scrutiny, Mr. J. Perry.

Butterfly was struck out of the A. J. C. Doncaster Handicap yesterday, and Mr. W. Long's Lady Lee withdrawn from the Hawkesbury Autumn meeting.

The committee of Tattersall's Club yesterday arranged the programme for their Grand Annual Steeplechase meeting, which takes place on June 7. It comprises the Grand National Steeplechase Handicap of 250 sovs., Flying Handicap of 200 sovs., Selling Race of 100 sovs., Grand National Steeplechase of 100 sovs., and the Publicans' Steeplechase Handicap of 21l10 prize money.

The postponement of the Hawkesbury Autumn Meeting until after that of the A.J.C., though rather complicating matters in double betting, will not in any way affect the wagering up to date. Issue 11 of Tattersall's Club provides as follows:—"In the event of the stewards or committee of the Hawkesbury meeting, we under the auspices of the A.J.C. or V.R.C., decreasing (if expedient) to postpone the races from day to day, or to a further date, the bets will stand good."

Our Brisbane correspondent telegraphs that the Rockhampton Jockey Club have adopted a programme for the annual meeting. There are seven events for each day, and the added money totals £1600.

The Moorefield Jockey Club fixture yesterday will be continued and concluded to-morrow. The programme for the occasion is a distinctive one, and the Club deserves credit for reaching the course by rail and road will be available.

Speculation on the Autumn handicaps was at a standstill yesterday.

Mr. J. B. Wilson announces his annual sale of thoroughbred yearlings at Randwick racecourse on the 8th instant, when 31 well-bred youngsters, including the progeny of Abercorn (imp.), Grandee (imp.), The Dreamer (imp.), Epitaph (imp.), Forest King, Mallum, Chipchase (imp.), Chevet (imp.), Sardonyx, Gloaming, Hastings, Maple, Spectre, and First King, will be brought under the hammer. A score rules from the Jockey Club Stakes, 1st also left in Gold Cup, Gold Cup, first at Sydney, and three each at Hurst and Loughlan. On the same date, Mr. C. Hill will sell at Randwick Paddock and Nentfield thoroughbred yearlings for sale. The Duckenfield contingent numbers 14 colts and eight fillies, including the produce of Grandmaster, Burkhurst (imp.), Gemma de Vergy, and Bonchmark, from well-known dams, and has fashionable matings. The Mordialloc division comprises two colts and four fillies, of whom Grandee (imp.) is represented by a colt and a filly, brown, Newminster, and Hawthornden for one each. The catalogues will be found in our advertising sheets.

Mention of horses in America which did injure, reminds one, says "Bandragon" in the Referee (Sing.), that the racing public of Australasia should take a great interest in Kuthan and Narelan's prospects for this year's liberty an interest entirely apart from that represented by the Australian Jockey Club fairy, as this effete old country lower down in the dumps than the mother of the colonies, and of no conceivable sporting view point, but no one can help feeling that such a chivalrous endeavour as Mr. James White's desire to be the mouthpiece of the Australian colonies in expert hands as to the quality of the Australian horses in Europe, should have and there think well enough of them, and others deserve them as coarse and unstable brutes, and declare it is absolutely impossible for any Australian horse to prove to be dangerous in the big race at Epsom. Two or three years ago, I was talking to a well-known Melbourne trainer about them, and he declared they have no more prospect of winning the Derby than he would have. If he had a horse in the Derby, he said, Mr. Sloan then I got a letter from a friend in whose judgment I have faith, and he mentioned several horses; he says that they are not at all taking at first, but the longer you look at them the more you like them, and that they have a good chance of winning if they are going. Against this latter opinion must be set an opinion I have from an intimate friend of a young man, Jim Chester, the son of these youngsters, has never so far got a chance. Everything as to the show ring goes to show that Australian horses, what our own three-year-olds are to be like; one year's Derby winner may be followed by a winner a year later, only gets second—why, maybe, boom! yet there—the year after. It would be better to be beaten by a Derby winner, if we are to be beaten, than by some of the foreigners who have run away with the turf's best prizes. There is no appearance and manners, if there is any difference, more English than the English, and yet may bet it is with no idea of making money, but simply and entirely from the true love of sport, and sport alone, that he has been at all the trouble and expense which must attend on the accompanying land and sea voyage.

MOOREFIELD PONY AND GALLOWAY RACES.

The weather yesterday forenoon was anything but encouraging for outdoor sports, for a steady rain set in about 10 o'clock, and appeared as though it would continue all day. The attendance was, of course, much change took place, and the remainder of the afternoon was fine. Despite the weather prospects, there was a good gathering of the public to witness the pony and galloway races, which proved of an interesting character. The attendance at the start for the Auction Stakes, in which little was left backing behind, Mr. Hegarty decapitated his Sabbath good form, and the only one to beat him was Mr. Cato's Caliber, who had the mount on Aboriginal in the Pony Chase Race, and was the only competitor from riding for a month from date. Fines of 21 each were imposed on G. Laing, J. Laing, Davis, Garson, and Freeland for coming late to the post in the Flying Handicap. The course, though rather heavy, was sound, and the sport was carried out without accident. Racing opened with the Carlton Handicap, for which 14 left the paddock, and the honours of favoritism were divided between Gordon Belle, Kurrabba, and Albert. Mignon made the pace to the distance, where Earlindale challenged and shot out with a long neck at the finish. Five took part in the Auction Stakes, and Zeny, who was made an odds on favourite, won in an easy. Nine started for the Ladies' Bracelet Handicap, and when opposition opened Nettie was in great demand, but as they went up to the post Pearl received 2l for taking a fractious objection. Half-a-dozen faced the starter for the Pony Selling Race, and Pearson's Gordon Belle, at 4 to 1 ruled fold, was a good race by a neck from Amos. Notwithstanding her defeat in the Scarborough Handicap, Little Rose was backed for the Welter Handicap, and the result the confidence by winning after a good contest, in front of Monitor and Albert. THE change in the day of despatching English mails per P. and O. and Orient line of steamers takes place this month. Under the present plan the mails are closed on Thursday, and the last despatch on this day will take place on Thursday the 10th inst. per Orient line. The next mail outwards will close on Monday the 21st April, per P. and O. line, 28th April and 5th May by Orient line, and afterwards on alternate Mondays per P. and O. and Orient lines. Under the new plan Newcastle will despatch three days later than at present, on Friday instead of Tuesday; Sydney four days later, on Monday instead of Thursday; Melbourne four days later, on Tuesday instead of Friday; and Adelaide one day later, on Wednesday instead of Monday. London will be reached on the 24th or 25th day out from Adelaide, probably before, as by this plan the service performed is generally in advance of the table dates.

HIS Excellency the Governor, who last week visited Goulburn, and during the past week has been staying at Moss Vale, returned to town to-day. Lord Carrington made the journey in the ordinary morning express.

MR. SYDNEY SMITH, Minister for Mines and Agriculture, left Sydney by the Melbourne express last evening. He will proceed at once to Adelaide, where he will join Sir Henry Parkes, and afterwards he will visit Broken Hill.

DURING the absence of the Colonial Treasurer in Melbourne, the Minister for Works will control the affairs of that department; and similarly, while the Minister for Mines is away, the Minister for Justice will take charge.

A MEETING of the Executive Council will be held to-day. Among the matters to be transacted is the appointment of Crown prosecutors for the Circuit Courts for the next six months. The list contains some 14 names.

MR. WESTON, Engineer-in-Chief for Existing Railways, it will be remembered, was some time ago granted 12 months' leave of absence on full pay, and that sum quarterly when news was received that he had not regained his health, he was allowed a further leave of six months at half-pay. The Minister for Works is now in receipt of a formal resignation from Mr. Whitton, who, in a private letter, states that as he has little hope of regaining his health at the termination of the leave, he will not be able to resume the duties of his office, and he considers he would not be justified in accepting the further extension of six months. Mr. Whitton's resignation will be tendered to the first Cabinet meeting, and the matter of his successor will then be discussed.

BY telegram from Yetman the Postmaster General has been informed that the highest flood yet on record has occurred there. From the 27th to the 29th March the depth of the Clarence Ｗ feet was 42ft. The whole town was flooded, and the post-office closed, the water being 3ft. in the post-office, the postmaster, with his wife and children, being obliged to camp for three days in Sandridges. The mail for Gumdi-wind, despatched from Yetman on the 28th ultimo, returned on the 30th, proved unable to proceed owing to the flooded state of the low lands. Mails for Wallangra and Inverell were despatched from Yetman on the 29th ultimo.

The Postmaster at Walgett reported to the Post-master-General by telegraph yesterday that "Floods still high, and likely to be for the next two months. Great inconvenience and expense in obtaining boats to cross flood. Water spread over twelve miles. Extremely high floods stated coming down, and the town must be submerged."

MESSRS. CRISP, HOWE, and WILLIS, M.L.A., waited upon Mr. Gibbons to-day in connection with the floods that threaten Bourke. A wire was at once sent to Sir Henry Parkes, who is in Adelaide, asking for £1000 to complete the dam around the town. The hon. gentleman, it is stated, based his opinion from experience of the flooded nature of the country, having only returned from the West that morning. A request was also sent to Bourke for assistance to enable the beleaguered inhabitants to get away to higher country, and the Railway Commissioners have responded by granting train rates of transit on their lines to Bourke. From Mosman, which has suffered much from the floods the Government has received an application for a boat for the use of those affected. The application has been granted.

SOME further particulars have been obtained bearing upon the proposal for the erection of repairs and supply of locomotives which the Government have accepted. The Australasian Locomotive Engine Works Company, Limited, propose to lay down in their new shops and machinery as will enable them to turn out engines of the most approved types, and at a cost which appears much less than could have been hoped for. It is the intention of the Railway Commissioners to gradually improve the class of engines running on our lines. They intend to introduce locomotive superior in design and finish and traction power to those now employed, with a view, in the end, to economy. At present the manufacturing cost of engines of this class of excellence in England is £20 per ton; and if the Commissioners decide upon holding those superior engines, the colonial Locomotive Company are prepared to place them in steam upon our railways at the price of £25 per ton. This refers to main line locomotives. For tank engines the price in steam is £30 per ton—slightly more favourable price than that for the tender engine. Under the conditions of the contract the new firm are allowed to import certain articles—subject to the approval of the Railway Commissioners—required in the manufacture of locomotives, which cannot be made here. The list of such articles contained in the proposal submitted to and accepted by the Government is as follows:—Fusses and solar plates in the rough, copper firebox plates in the rough; brass, iron, and steel tubes; and tyres in the rough crank axles in the rough, coal-wood wheels in the rough (wrought and cast-iron wheels will be made in the colony), and spring steel. Not one of these things can, under existing conditions, be made here. It is admitted by the Government that the order for the first hundred engines shall be completed within three years. The period in which the Australasian Company propose to carry out the contract is two years on their behalf. To point out the expedition required to fulfil the promise, it needs only to be mentioned that an order was given by the Commissioners in March, 1888, to an English firm for 10 engines, and that only five have as yet been received; and also that a further order given last June for 21 engines has scarcely made any advance. In addition to the hundred engines which the company will build, at least three hundred more are required for renewals, &c., to place the rolling stock on a proper footing. Compared with other countries, our present equipment, which is equal to about one-fifth of an engine per mile, is below the average, and during the five years from the extension of existing and the laying of new lines will be considerable, so that ample scope is allowed for the increase of rolling stock.

THE inquiry which has been conducted by the Education Department into the regulations governing the bestowal of University and High School bursaries, into the ability of the parents of successful pupils to defray the cost of this advanced education, is completed. The results are that in one or two cases the guardians have intimated their ability to educate their wards without assistance from the State, while in two other cases the Department decline to award the bursaries, as the parents are evidently not in that position which State aid was contemplated to assist. The inquiry has been made with care and thoroughness, and it is believed the primary object of the bursaries has been secured, namely, to afford assistance to those who otherwise would be unable to complete the education of promising children. A revised list of the bursary-holders will be published shortly.

DR. OSCAR DAVIES, son of the Rev. Rabbi Davis, having passed successfully the final examinations at the Dental College, Philadelphia (of which he had been appointed one of the Demonstrators), and having obtained the degree of D.D.S. with honours, is on his way to Sydney per the steaming American mail steamer.

THE examination of intending applicants for the appointment of inspector of stock, which was commenced by the Stock Board of Examiners at the Department of Mines on the 24th March, was concluded on Saturday last, when certificates of competency were awarded to the following candidates, viz.:—J. W. M'Kellu, Bimella, Victoria; J. Chaffey, Mosman; G. W. H. Weir, West Maitland; H. E. Palmer, Riverstone; and J. A. T. Rochfort, Marrickville.

A CONVOCATION of the electors of St. John's College was held yesterday for the purpose of filling the vacancy in the college council created by the retirement of Mr. Henry Austin. There were two candidates—Mr. Frank Lawrence, B.A., who was nominated by Mr. C. H. Pearson, M.A., and Mr. John Hughes, R.S.G., nominated by Sir P. A. Jennings, K.C.M.G. The result of the ballot was 18 votes for Mr. Lawrence and 9 votes for Mr. Hughes. The Rector, the Very Rev. Dr. O'Brien, thereupon declared Mr. Lawrence duly elected a Fellow of the college.

GOOD attention has been drawn to the position of St. Vincent's College at the examination associations lately held at the University. The Sisters presented six candidates, and all were successful. As the number of female pupils was 37, St. Vincent's College did very well, both in having no failures among its candidates, and in having sent up one-sixth of the whole number of successful female students.

A JOINT meeting of the political committee of the National Club and the committee appointed by the National party in Parliament was held yesterday at the National Club. The Hon. Sir William Manning, M.L.C., occupied the chair. Matters affecting the organisation of the parliamentary party were discussed at considerable length by Messrs. Dibbs, Creanor, Kidd, Trickett, Traill, Nicoll, O'Sullivan, M.L.A., A. Forsyth, J. P. Wright, A. Martin, W. H. Armstrong, and others. The further consideration of the matter was postponed till Wednesday evening. The regular meeting of the political committee was subsequently held, at which matters concerning the coming elections for the Hastings and Manning were dealt with. The correspondence included 76 letters from affiliated National Protection Associations and others.

SEVERAL of the municipal councils on the Illawarra for last session have had before them the proposal of the Government to establish a sewage farm at Waldo's grant, Cook's River, in connection with the western suburbs sewerage scheme. Operations have been carried on at this locality as part of the co-ton-south-ern sewerage scheme for the last five years, but the more extensive work now contemplated is opposed. As one or two anti-Bill public meetings late attitude has been taken, and in order that full information may be afforded the protesting residents, Mr. J. H. Carruthers (Minister for Education) has requested the Works Department to appoint an officer to meet and explain to the people interested the proposed system of managing the farm. The Minister for Works has complied with the request, and has appointed Mr. Biggs, Engineer for Sewerage, to confer with the members for Canterbury and the various municipal councils concerned. A conference is to take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

THE fleetsailing Austral is due here early this morning from London, after another successful run out to the colonies. She is three days with a contract time and this has been accomplished without undue pushing. From Adelaide to Melbourne the Austral ran along at a mean average speed of 14 knots per hour, so that it will be seen her steaming capabilities are of a very high order. The ship was well filled with passengers for all ports on leaving Plymouth, and there are 208 on board for Sydney. All have enjoyed excellent health, and are well pleased with the ship. Captain J. F. Jackson and his officers being highly praised for their attention to duty and endeavors to make the voyage as agreeable one. It is stated that Captain Hutchison will very likely have command of the Orient Company's new steamer Ophir when she is placed on the Australian line. The Ophir is reputed to be one of the most powerful ships afloat, a vessel of 7000 tons driven by twin screws.

ENGLISH mail per P. and O. Company's steamer Britannia to February 28 from London were despatched by special train on Sunday last from Adelaide, and arrived here to-day in time for delivery at 2 p.m., excepting the bags for the fleet, which will be one to morrow in time for delivery at 5 o'clock a.m.

THE Port Pirie is one of the Anglo-Australasian line of steamships now on her way to Sydney, and due here in a few days. She has previously visited Sydney, but for along time past has traded between China and Japan and Vancouver. Upon the completion of that contract she returned to England, and lost no time in filling up with general cargo; and having on board, inclusive of bunker coal, over 4000 tons, she made a start for Australia on February 7. Steaming some very fine weather down to Las Palmas, where a supply of coal was taken to carry her to this port. Her speed to Adelaide, where she has arrived, averaged 11 knots, at a daily coal consumption of 30 tons.

THE passengers by the Blue Anchor line steamer Murrumbidgee had an exceptional opportunity on the outward voyage of visiting the Island of Las Palmas. The steamer called there as in usual for coal, but was detained 20 hours. Captain A. E. Pilkington, who commanded on the Murrumbidgee, succeeded in making the voyage from London to Adelaide by way of the Cape of Good Hope in 44 days, which is a very fair performance, in face of the adverse weather the most safe after crossing the Equator. The number of Mr. W. Reid's steamers has been so increased that there is almost always a contractable vessel lying in an Adelaide port. The Cargo, a Blue Anchor liner, has just left Sydney homewards, and the Murrumbidgee arrival here cannot be long delayed now that this is the Australian coast. She has in addition to passengers a large cargo for Sydney.

TOURIST not mentioned in the first report received from of the fire on board the ship Durham at Port Pirie, the loss of a cigarette and loss of life took place while the ship was lying in the Golden Gate port. The Durham, it may be mentioned, went up to San Francisco from S. Shoes. She had a large cargo, consisting of 1000 tons, and she made a very good passage, namely, 81 days. Particulars of the fire have been given. The fire broke out in the ship, was half loaded with wheat for Europe, and after it had been put out, Lloyds' representatives at San Francisco, (Captain Freeman (inspector) and Mr. R. P. Oulton (agent), were called on to take charge of the ship to see what damage had be sustained. While there they were asphyxiated by the noxious gases left from the consumed contents of the hold. Though their condition was speedily discovered by the officers of the ship, by whom they were promptly put on their guard as to the dangers, yet they had not to risk their lives, yet medical aid was needed to restoring them to consciousness. The day showing this fatal consequence, the first and second officers of the Durham, with a crew, left the ship, when it capsized and they were drowned. The misfortunes of the Durham have been many. Aside from her particular bad luck, however, there have been all too many fatalities on board shipping in the port of San Francisco to please either underwriters, shipowners, or shippers.

CAPTAIN HOOPER, R.N., recent visitor to New Zealand, who is now sailing for a couple of days in the Channel, has spoken very highly in terms of the future of the coal industry in New Zealand. In the neighbourhood of Westport the supply is found inexhaustible, and is, too, of splendid quality, and whether for steam, coking, domestic, or other purposes, is said to be equal to the best English coal. The cost of mining is comparatively small, since the seams (some over 30ft. thick) are mainly above the ordinary surface rather than deep down, but the difficulty of getting the yield to market is still the serious obstacle, though one that is being steadily, if slowly, grappled with. As means of communication and transit are improved, and with the introduction of additional capital, an unprecedented stimulus is imparted to a given to the mining industry, the result of which will be found in the placing on the New Zealand market of Westport coal at the same price as Newcastle.

FAIR COAL promises to assume its wonted warlike appearance in a few days or a few hours. To the representatives of her Majesty's Navy at present lying there will be added the flagship, the Orlando (Rear-Admiral Lord Charles Scott), now on her way from Melbourne; the Royalist, from Adelaide, via Portland; and H.M.S. Rapid, from Hobart. The cause of influenza, which are numerous on board, are also said to be fairly prevalent. Perhaps the changes from lyingup port to being again at sea will be of benefit to the invalids. One of the features connected with the Orlando's stay here this time is the launching of the new gravity dock at Cockatoo Island.

THE Honora Mr. Justice Owen sat in Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction yesterday, and commenced the hearing of a district will case, which is expected to last the end, will certainly take up a great deal of time. The plaintiffs are the executors of, and seek probate for, the will of the late John Brown, of Emu Hall, Penrith, who died on the 24th ult., leaving a testamentary estate, £200,000. When the application for probate was first lodged the testator's widow, Margaret Brown, to whom a very small allowance had been made, lodged a caveat. A few months afterwards Mrs. Brown died intestate, and the matter of the caveat was then taken up by the administrator of the estate. The only evidence taken yesterday was that of persons connected with the office of Messrs Deane and Dennis, who acted as solicitors to the testator for some 40 years prior to his death. The will was proved by the solicitors Messrs A. J. Scott, J. W. Downie, J. H. Steven, and the Moderan Clough. An appropriate address was delivered by the Rev. A. W. Pain. This evening (Monday) "Baptismal Regeneration" will be preached. The preacher will be the Rev. F. B. Boyes. The sacrament of the Holy Communion will be administered daily up to Thursday at 8.30 a.m., and evening services at 7.30 p.m. On Wednesday the Rev. C. F. Garnsey will preach, and on Thursday the Rev. H. Marsh. On Good Friday the Holy Communion will be administered at 8 a.m.; the Rev. Boyes will preach at 11 a.m., and the Preceptor at 7.30 p.m. The Dean, on Saturday, will preach at 7.30 p.m.

DURING the past year the Rev. F. M. Dalrymple has been performing the duties of curate of the Church St. Bartholomew's Church, Pyrmont, as lecturer teacher for the Rev. G. THE Wheat Conference's Conference was continued yesterday, Mr. A. J. Kelly, the president, being in the chair. Delegates from the Newcastle Coal-to-mmoner Union were admitted. Two motions, having the effect of preventing the various Wheat Lumpers' Coal-trimmers', and Coal-lumpers' Unions throughout the colonies were carried without discussion; but it then transpired that they had not been carried unanimously, and two of the delegates from New Zealand and two of those from Victoria having declared from voting in consequence of the motion being put having been invited to attend the conference. After discussion it was agreed to adjourn the conference to allow representatives from the Coal-lumpers' Union of Victoria to attend.

WITH regard to the charge brought against G. L. A. Davies, in the Windsor Police Court on Friday last, of obstructing a constable in the execution of his duty, Mr. Daniel Holland, J.P., sends us his version of the case. The constable, it appears, was charged "that he did incite persons there present to resist the informant, Constable Eggerton, in the execution of his duty in his endeavour to get a team from the yard of the Sydney Hotel, Windsor." At this point, Mr. Holland states, which he raised was that the Act under which the information was laid, "getting a team," &c., was intended to be applied to mean "in the execution of his duty," and to constitute an offence under the Act. Mr. Holland maintained that the charge should be one of inciting or resisting the police in the execution of a summons, arresting an offender, preventing a breach of the peace, or similar duties.

AMONGST the many valuable and interesting gifts lately presented by Sir George Grey to the Auckland Museum was a piece of the handwriting of Captain Cook, in which the great navigator records the discovery and naming of Botanist' (Botany) Bay and Port Jackson. Captain Hacket, R.N., who on Sunday last visited Port Jackson, New Zealand, while there had the pleasure of inspecting this venerable relic, and made the following interesting extract:—Botanists' Bay, April 27th, 1770.—The wind being foul and variable, glad about shore, but lost ground, so were at noon in latitude 34-21 S., Red Point bearing S. 27 W., distant three leagues. In this position we were entirely in the Gulf of Stream, which extended from S. 19 SO W. to N. 29 E. April 28th.—Attempted to land in yawl but could not for the surf. In a.m. saw a bay, seemingly well sheltered, and sent the pinnace to sound it at noon. The entrance bore N.N.W., distant 1 mile. 29th.—In the p.m. stood in and anchored underneath the S. shore in fathom water, about two miles within the entrance. The S. point bearing S.E. 30th.—Mr. Green took the sun's meridian altitude a little within the S. point of the bay, which gave the latitude 34 0 S. May 1st.—Variation we observed to be 11-8 E. A seaman called Sutherland died, and was buried at the watering place, on which account the south point of the bay was called Sutherland's Point. The bay, which is situated in latitude 34 S. and 208-37 W., was called Botanists' Bay. It is capacious, safe, and commodious. It may be known by the land on the sea coast, which is of a pretty even and moderate height, rather higher than it is farther inland, with steep rocky cliffs near the sea, looking like a long island laying close underneath the shore. The entrance of the harbour is about the middle of this land. In coming from the southward you will see it before you are abreast of it, which is not the case in coming from the northward. The entrance is little more than a quarter of a mile broad, and lies in W.N.W. To sail into it keep the south side on board until within a small bare head, which is about a mile within the north shore. Being within that island the deepest water is 7-0 x 5 fathoms, a good way upon that side. There is about water a good way off the south shore from the south point to the head of the sub harbour, but over to the N. and N.W. shore is a channel of 12 to 14 ft. water, at low water, or 30-41, 4 tgs, quite up to a place where is three or four fathoms, broad, and very good. In leaving the north shore near the S. shore, about a mile within the entrance, for the convenience of sailing with a south wind, and clearing off fresh water, the shoal brook was afterwards discovered on the north shore in the first sandy cove within the island, before which a ship might lay aground, and careen for wood. It is perfectly safe everywhere. The tide flows in this bay at full, and changes about 9-01, and rises 4 or 5 ft. 11h.—At daylight, a.m., sailed and stayed along shore. At noon were by dead. In latitude 33-00 S., about two or three miles from the land, and abeam of a bay or harbour in which there appeared to be safe anchorage. This was called Port Jackson. It lies three leagues to the northward of Botanists' Bay.

WITH regard to a paragraph which appeared in the issue of Friday last, in relation to the University organ, Mr. Charles Richardson writes us stating that the organ was used on Commemoration Day, April, 1888; for the Lieutenant Governor's dinner, at the Australian Club, and his Excellency Lord Carrington as Grand Master of New South Wales; also for the Vice-Chancellor's dinner, Commemoration Day, 1889, and other occasions. The organ, on requisition, was accepted a contract for repairing the instrument in May last, under that the season why the results of the expenditure of £100 were not given to him because the extremely heavy rain in that month made its way through the roof and saturated the whole of one side of the organ. This damage, the writer adds, could not be repaired, and the organ is in consequence the organ has never been used since.

SIR HENRY PARKES IN ADELAIDE.

[By Telegraph.] (FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

ADELAIDE, MONDAY.

The movements of Sir Henry Parkes to-day were more of a social nature than in any other direction, although this morning he had a long hour's interview with Dr. Cockburn, the Premier of the colony. Several topics of intercolonial interest were touched upon, but the conference was hurried owing to Dr. Cockburn having to fulfil an engagement elsewhere. Nothing of importance resulted from the interview, but it may be mentioned as an item of political interest that Dr. Cockburn predicted that an appeal which was about to be made to constituencies would return him back to power with a good majority. However that is not expected by the politicians and public in Adelaide. A considerable amount of disappointment is expressed in a section of to-day's press regarding the influence of Sir Henry Parkes's visit to Broken Hill, in relation to Darvier trade, it is the intention of the Adelaide Chamber of Commerce to urge upon the Premier of South Australia to-morrow the desirableness of intervening Sir Henry Parkes has gone this, and also the question of gauge and other matters pertaining to the Barrier Railway. Arrangements have been completed by which Sir Henry Parkes and Mr. Cockburn will leave for Broken Hill on Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Cockburn has informed Sir Henry Parkes that everything possible will be done by the Railway Department to make the journey to the Barrier as comfortable as possible as the Government had determined to conclude New South Wales in extending hospitality to the visitor. Breakfast will be waiting at Silverton on Thursday morning, from the party will be taken on to Broken Hill by a special train. Extensive preparations have been made for the reception of Sir Henry Parkes and Mr. Smith who will remain on the silver fall until Monday evening, April 7. FLOODS IN THE COUNTRY.

THE MACINTYRE DISTRICT.

THE HIGHEST FLOOD EVER KNOWN.

RESIDENTS OF YETMAN FLOODED OUT.

TWO FATALITIES AND GREAT DAMAGE.

The Government Astronomer's predictions of serious floods on the Darling are now being verified. The tremendous rainfall in the Darling Downs and Moreton districts, just across the New South Wales border, commenced on Sunday, 23rd, and continued for two days. The feeders at the heads of the Darling, and the terrible effects are now becoming apparent. Bourke has not yet received the worst, but a flood such as has not been known since 1864 is imminent, and the townspeople are preparing with a full conviction that it is inevitable. It will be remembered that from 12th, to 17th, of rain fell in 24 hours in the vicinity of Barraba, and, on the 6th, fell an average of 2in. over the watershed of the Darling, the Macintyre, and the feeders to the Darling. The Condamine River, swollen to its highest capacity, is now sending its waters down towards Bourke, and the situation is in a like dangerous condition. At Yetman, on the Macintyre, from Wednesday to Saturday last, the flood was the worst on record, the height of the river being no less than 41ft. above summer level. The whole town of Yetman is flooded. The post-office is closed, with 3ft. of water on the ground floor. The postmaster and his family have abandoned the building, and have to camp on some higher land, and the mails to and from Yetman are stopped by the flood waters. At Walgett the floods are still high, and likely to continue so for the next two months. There is not the slightest fear of bone and team received in Walgett of extremely high floods coming down from the Lachlan, and the message received from Cobar shows that the country down "must be submerged." People are consulting amongst themselves as to what is best to be done, and are generally in much distress. Great inconvenience, suffering, and expense is to be apprehended. The flood water is rushing for eight to twelve miles, and can only be negotiated by the help of boats. At 9 p.m. it was showed, for Albury and Hamlin, the rain at Deniliquin, cloudy at Forbes, raining at Dubbo and at Kandi. The rains since last Friday have been heavy over the colony—good, local rains. Mount Hope, 2?3; Hay and Condobolin, 2in. and 1in. respectively. Wild raining over a great part of the colony. Eighty-two places reported rain in the colony yesterday morning, of which the following are the figures:—Inverell, 1?; Bourke, 1?; Condobolin 1?0, Hay 1?0, Hillston 1?0, Dubbo 1?5, Mudgee 1?0, Cobar 1?0, Nyngan 1?0, Molongulo 1?0, Nyngan 1?0, Tenterfield 1?0, Wagga 1?. In the west and south-west part of the colony from 6 a.m. on Saturday to 9 a.m. on Monday (48 hours), Albury received 70 points of rain, Barraba 52, Bathurst 20; Cootamundra, 18; Cowra, 27; Forbes, 35, Gunning, 20; Hillston 40; Hay, 10; Hillston, 25in.; Junee, 10in.; Jerilderie, 20; Quirindi, 20; Tamworth, 20; Temora, 20; Moss-vale, 10; Yass 40 in 48 hours, and Mount Hope 4in. Almost everywhere received a little. Narandera, 60 points; Young, 40in. and 10in. respectively. Wild (Hope was exceptionally wet and on any part of the coast or inland country, the rainfall was heavy over the metropolis was merely nominal. 11 points for 48 hours up to 9 a.m. yesterday. The sea along the coast is unusually rough, and the surf is very high. It was happy being Clarence Heads last night. There were some heavy breakers, and a short spell of the weather last night, but Mr. Russel, is not yet prepared to say that the weather is at a settled. In my opinion, the Coolah reports, and the four or more specimens' telegrams below, are the worst features of the case. Coolah is a small town at the present moment, and a large amount of sympathy is expressed on all sides in the city at the serious prospects, difficulties, and loss the settlers are called upon to face now and for some weeks to come.

[By Telegraph.] (FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

THE STATE OF THE BOURKE DISTRICT.

A BIG FLOOD BELIEVED TO BE INEVITABLE.

BOURKE, MONDAY.

Rain again fell yesterday, and 1?0 points were registered, and about 10 points to-day. It is now fine and clear, but very cool. The enclosure works have been seriously damaged by the rain. The Darling is rising. The river is now 37ft. 3in., and rising. Gongolgon reports the river now 37ft. 3in., and rising. Louth, 35in., and rising. Tilpa, 35ft. 3in., and rising. Walgett, the Barwon, 41ft. 1in., stationary; and at Quandi, 32ft., stationary. Brewarrina, 34ft. 6in., stationary. Mungindi, 23ft., falling; Brewarrina, 30ft. 9in., falling. The rain in the local hill at Gontogua, where the river is 14ft. 3in., stationary. Wee Waa, three-parts a beaker, and Cumnemulla, the flood waters are all over the cultivated paddocks. It has been raining at Yetman: on the 27th 3?3 points fell, 38th 1?0 points. The river now is 41ft. 1in., and 10in. and falling. A special meeting of the council was held to-day, at which it was resolved to ask the Colonial Secretary to assist all distressed settlers which the council may determine to take in securing the safety of the water in Dublin Lake and Bonshaw Commonstores, if it be found necessary, to put on special cheap trains to convey the women and children to a place of safety. The water in Dublin lake is 4ft. 6in. The Tenterfield Station is surrounded, many homestead leases being compelled to abandon their homes, but there are not very heavy losses of stock reported, but it is feared that the extent of the losses is not yet known. Several families have already left for safer quarters, and others are preparing to follow. There is yet a chance that the present flood waters may recede sufficiently to obviate damage, but the general opinion is that a big flood is inevitable.

YETMAN, MONDAY.

We have just experienced the highest flood ever known here. The McIntyre River was 41ft. high. The white town was under water to a depth of 4ft. The water was 3ft. 6in. in the hotel and 1ft. in the yellow barracks, courthouse, and post-office. With the exception of a few houses on the hill, the hotel and all the police station, all the inhabitants had to seek refuge on the main ridge. Great damage has been caused to fences and crops, and the loss must be heavy. A report has just been received of a boy having been drowned at Coolabah. Two men have lost houses at Tulleroi. Inquiries have been held, and the bodies have been found. The police magistrate and Inspector Bailey, of Warialda, are here attending the court. They left for home early on Saturday.

FLOOD IN THE LACHLAN RIVER.

HILLSTON, MONDAY.

One hundred and ninety-two points of rain fell yesterday. The river is over the north bank, and the Willandra and Mercedes creeks are backed. All the harvests are full. A further fresh is reported to be coming down.

MOVEMENT FOR RELIEVING THE HAWKESBURY SUFFERERS.

WINDSOR, MONDAY.

A meeting is to be held on Wednesday evening for the purpose of taking into consideration the distress occasioned by the recent floods, and to arrange to secure relief for farmers and others, many of whom have been well nigh ruined.

CAMDEN, MONDAY.

Rain has fallen at intervals since yesterday. The weather is now very unsettled.

COOLAH, MONDAY.

Fifty-four points of rain were registered here last night. It is raining now, with indications of more. Stock long continued wet weather causes stagnation of business.

CORAKI, MONDAY.

The river has fallen 4ft.; the back-water in places was nearly as high as the bank. It is going down slowly. Much stock had again to be removed to the ridges, which are very bare, and the stock are dying rapidly. The country is flooded, has again set in, and everything is at a standstill. The oldest residents state that they never knew such a succession of rain and floods as this. Agriculture has for the past five months. Part of to-day was fine, but it is now showery.

FORBES, MONDAY.

Rain set in again last night, and there have been slight showers all to-day.

PORBES, MONDAY.

Up to 9 o'clock this morning 36 points of rain had fallen. It is still raining.

LATER.

No rain of any consequence has fallen here since this morning. There have been a few slight showers, and the sky is fine, though there are indications of a further downpour.

GILGANDRA, MONDAY.

Yesterday was very hot, with heavy thunder, on the Murchisony. To-day it cold and wet, with a light rain falling. There is every appearance of a heavy downfall shortly. The Castlereagh is falling fast, and stock which had been removed from the flooded country in anticipation of floods are being put back. Green and water are abundant, but a week's warm weather is required before the settling-in of stock, which appears to be approaching.

HAY, MONDAY.

Splendid rain fell on Sunday throughout the district. It again set in early this morning, and lasted all day. STRANGE CONDUCT OF A GIRL.

[By Telegraph.] (FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

WINDSOR, MONDAY.

Search was made for some time on Saturday for the body of the young woman Louisa Swan, who was supposed to have drowned herself in the Hawkesbury. Well indeed the police may be at their ease, for the track was leading from the road right to the side of the water, and no return tracks being found. Suspicion was naturally aroused, but now that the affair was a hoax, and so it turned out to be, for at about 9 o'clock on Saturday night the girl walked into the house of her mother, safe and sound. It has transpired that the girl only left the premises of the Commissioner of Crown Lands, and, seemed, walked to the river, and come back, secreting herself in a loft on the premises. There she remained in hiding all day.

NORTHERN MINERS' MEETINGS.

NEWCASTLE, MONDAY.

At a meeting of the Hamilton miners held on Saturday evening, it was resolved, in view of the approach of an election of a committee of management, to aggregate meetings of miners to be held to discuss the merits of the various candidates. It would seem that the miners' general committee of management has ceased to exist. The Hamilton miners, at a meeting at Tarbert on the 27th 3?3 points fell, 28th 1?0 points. The river now is 41ft. 1in., and 10in. and falling. A special meeting of the council was held to-day, at which it was resolved to ask the Colonial Secretary to assist all distressed settlers which the council may determine to take in securing the safety of the water in Dublin Lake and Bonshaw Commonstores, if it be found necessary, to put on special cheap trains to convey the women and children to a place of safety. The water in Dublin lake is 4ft. 6in. The Tenterfield Station is surrounded, many homestead leases being compelled to abandon their homes, but there are not very heavy losses of stock reported, but it is feared that the extent of the losses is not yet known. Several families have already left for safer quarters, and others are preparing to follow. There is yet a chance that the present flood waters may recede sufficiently to obviate damage, but the general opinion is that a big flood is inevitable.

YETMAN, MONDAY.

We have just experienced the highest flood ever known here. The McIntyre River was 41ft. high. The white town was under water to a depth of 4ft. The water was 3ft. 6in. in the hotel and 1ft. in the yellow barracks, courthouse, and post-office. With the exception of a few houses on the hill, the hotel and all the police station, all the inhabitants had to seek refuge on the main ridge. Great damage has been caused to fences and crops, and the loss must be heavy. A report has just been received of a boy having been drowned at Coolabah. Two men have lost houses at Tulleroi. Inquiries have been held, and the bodies have been found. The police magistrate and Inspector Bailey, of Warialda, are here attending the court. They left for home early on Saturday.

MR. J. J. TOOLE'S ARRIVAL.

AN EFFUSIVE WELCOME.

THE GREAT COMEDIAN'S INTENDED MOVEMENTS.

[By Telegraph.] (BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

ADELAIDE, MONDAY.

I left the Semaphore Jetty just before sundown yesterday in the official launch to meet the R.M.S. Britannia, which was anchored in a heavily great best shifted. After calling at the R.M.S. Orient and Yarra, I proceeded to the Britannia, which dropped anchor between three vessels, about three miles from the land. After a short wait the health officer passed the incoming ship, and I immediately boarded. Mr. Toole was at dinner, but I was shown to his cabin, which was like a photographic art gallery, the walls being covered with pictures bearing the autographs of the originals. Among them were those of the Prince of Wales, in Highland uniform; Lord Rosebery, Henry Irving, Ellen Terry, and many other prominent artists. The cabin was filled with presents given to Mr. Toole on his departure from England as the greatest comedian of the age. The presents included a silver tea-pot, a silver and gold bracelet, photographic albums, enclosing the fearsome of leading men of the English stage, flowers, and scenery, as well as those of 100 members of the committee who superintended the farewell banquet given at the Hotel Metropole in London prior to Mr. Toole starting for Australia. There was a lamentable wall of good mornings, and I was at once welcome. Mr. Toole starting for Australia. There was a lamentable wall of good mornings, and I was at once welcome. Mr. Toole's first question was, "Have you seen Irving?" I had seen Irving, and I had a long and consecutive interview with him on important matters, which Mr. Toole came downstairs, his hands bedecked with telegrams and letters of welcome. Mr. Toole's first words were, "I am very glad to be here. He is the personification of good health and jovality, and at once commodious Clement Scott's specially composed song of welcome, which he cheerfully gave back "Farewell; but not good-bye," and recalls the lines, "Grey time that with time heals has kept you young, and artful than have seen down has chastened you."

The professional visit to Australia, on the first remarks of Mr. Toole were, "I am sorry to have to greet you in such a crushed, cabined, and confined space. I feel ill-at-ease here, and I have not been well for two years. The voyage has been all out could wish, and it has benefited me as much as possible. Of course you know I was tempested the night before I left London, and it was a happy departure. Almost unthanked of, let me tell you, but only it was delightful to know you care that Prince of Wales not one he wants like to come to your great Australia, but that his Royal Highness cannot see his way clear to spare the time which would be occupied in the long sea voyage.

"Well, Mr. Toole, how do you view your visit to these shores?"

"Your 'ill," he replied; "why, I look forward to it with the greatest pleasure. I am very glad to see you on this side of the globe where your day is our night, and where I shall be able to sit up all night long and yet be able to go to bed at a reasonable hour, perhaps for the benefit of my health. I look forward with great pleasure to meet face to face our Australian brethren, why, I am sure, will welcome me; and if they make like me as much as I like the Australian, I am the best friends in the world."

"In those days you will have plenty of time to see the pieces to the people of Australia?"

"Why, you know my leaders are, and I dessay I shall see a great deal of your country. I hear people have heard that some of my character parts have been played in Australia before, and I dessay when I appear before your audiences some Australians will say, 'Hullo, I have seen this before.' I won't say that my appearance is extraordinary, but that it includes anything altogether new. For instance, I have a piece called 'Dan Peppery,' and 'Old an Parts Francois,' which is quite quite a new face to me, having played it about 5000 times." (Laughter.) "Well, I have a piece called 'Dan Peppery' in the character in which I hope to make a mark. It is the character of a Scotchman, and I have 'Cricket on the Hearth.' I shall spin in Melbourne next Saturday as Cleeton in 'The Ford and His Money.' This will be followed by 'Dan Peppery.' I don't know which I shall get to your famous city, Sydney, first, but I hope it will be Sydney."

"Are there any great theatrical stars coming to Australia?"

"Stars, oh, my friend! Henry Irving is anxious to come; so are others, but, [illegible] I hope to see Irving and Ellen Terry at Stratford-on-Avon, during my journey at Colombo, and played there. It was very funny, as we performed at half-past 10 in the morning. I was anxious to get to Stratford-on-Avon on the arrival of the steamer, but we telegraphed to reach there on a Sunday. Well, I thought we that we played on Sunday morning, and, half an hour after the performance, we were on board ship and away."

"Did you see a good reception there?"

"Well, rather; about the hottest I ever had. The waiting was more than usual, there was a tremendous laugh, and the audience was enthusiastic. Ha, ha! Gorge. I played the part of Simmonds in 'The Spiritualistic Weaver,' Mr. Billington playing the part of Brown."

The closed the interview, except in regard to an expression of hospitality, which I was unable to accept at the moment of "Success to your Australian tour." Mr. Toole received an address from the Adelaide people. We drove to Glen with him at Montefiore, together was Lord Kintore, Sir Henry Parkes, and other guests, but owing to the late arrival of the Britannia, and the fog which set in about the morning, it was impossible for him to arrange the proposed banquet. Mr. Toole's luggage was allowed, we were a walking-stick of Australian wood given to him by A. W. Pearce, a gold snuff-box, with diamond inlaids, presented by the Prince of Wales, and a large display of fine cigars. Mr. Toole's company includes John Billington, who played for a long time in Melbourne the past 20 years; Miss E. Johnstone, from Vaudeville, and Miss Lesley, Madame Donald, George Shelton, Charles Barnes, Fred Wyndham, Miss John Gunn, and Action. Mr. Toole has brought out about 40 dress pieces, including "The Dean," "The Doctor," "Paul Pry," "The Upper Crust," "The Serious Family," "Artful Dodge," "Dearer than Life," "Uncle Dick's Darling," "Off to Philadelphia," "Ici," and "The Spin hello Weaver." The great actor's welcome on Saturday night was enthusiastic. Among those present were Mr. Smith (Chief Commissioner for Railways) and Mr. Wybert Reeve. Messrs. Hough and Dodderidge also sound a welcome from Melbourne.

MR. WILKINSON, M.L.A., AND THE SINGLE TAX.

ALBURY, MONDAY.

Mr. John Wilkinson, M.L.A., addressed the Albury electors this evening, in the Methodist Institute. The Mayor occupied the chair, and there was a large and enthusiastic audience. The speaker, who met with a favourable reception, commenced his address by commenting at considerable length on Henry George's single tax proposals, which he stated, was an impracticable and unjust. In order to show their injustice he directed special attention to the fact that under George's system all forms of realised wealth would escape without taxation, while the unfortunate freeholder would have to pay the lion's share of the entire community. In the course of his remarks on this subject, he said that whilst admiring George's courage, and his great zeal for the good of philanthropist, the fact that he had persistently abused and held up to ridicule one particular political party, was a great blunder. He (Mr. Wilkinson) had his mission to Australia was less to advocate the principles of political reform than to injure the cause of prejudice, and to bear up the cause of freetrade. The speaker next touched upon the local question, reviewing the progress made by the protectionist cause in New South Wales and in Victoria generally, and expressing his firm conviction that it must before long become the settled policy of the Australian Colonies as well as the mother country. He was in favour of intercolonial freetrade, which he hoped would be brought about by the freetrade party and protectionists were opposed to federation). But he and his party believed that the right and indeed only way to secure federation was by New South Wales, in the first instance, adopting the policy of protection.

The thirty-seventh half-yearly meeting of the Civil Service Co-operative Society was held this evening, Mr. Dolobey in the chair. The report, of which the principal figures have already been published, was adopted. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the directors and officers of the institution.

The following is a return of the Customs collections at Sydney for the period from January 1st to March 31st for the years 1888 and 1890 respectively:—

	March.		1888.	1890.
January			£152,192 12 10	£191,003 1
February			146,334 9 4	187,334 9
March			146,334 9 4	187,334 9
Total			£445,861 8 11	£565,672 1

It will be seen that in the third month of the year there was a decrease of £50,44 as compared with March last year. Each month of the year has yielded a smaller revenue than the corresponding month of last year, the total decrease being £24,478.

The other day we quoted a decision given in an English Court, to the effect that premiums paid to American life assurance offices in England were not exempt from income tax, and were thus prejudiced. A correspondent of the Economist, signing himself "Manager," sends a rejoinder to the American companies in the particulars complained of. But he says that "the advantage which the British offices gain by the recent decision rests but a small part in compensate for the disadvantage they suffer under the present system of charging income tax on interest derived from investments," the American offices being free of any such impost. The correspondent says that the British offices are not at a disadvantage as compared with the American, because few of the offers were made to make "estimates" of future benefits, formed on data of interest and expenses which are quite obsolete, and which there is practically no chance of ever realising. No doubt, to the extent that such estimates are made by any office they must be looked on with great suspicion. An office with an expense rate of 15 per cent to premium income, or a mortality rate of 20 per cent, or an interest rate of 5 per cent, will yield bonuses and advantages far in excess of the same office when it increases its expense rate to 20 per cent, its mortality rate to 25 per cent, and reduces its interest rate on invested funds to 4½ per cent. Assurants in Australia, as well as in England, should look carefully upon all "estimates" of future benefits, and should read the annual meeting reports. The belief prevails, with this reason, that the interest rates on invested funds will have a downward tendency with all offices. The only way in which profits can be maintained is by a diminution of expenses corresponding to the reduction in the interest return.

In the latest markets to-day compared with little business was done, although some transactions for the coming month were completed within the whole. The four market is steady, current rates being as they were last week. The official reports of the Indian wheat crop, the outlook, on the whole, is encouraging, though much depended on an early fall of rain. Our cablegrams published this morning show that the European and American markets at present give no indication of improvement. In tea we note the sale of 100 boxes of common to good Congou, inquiry for medium, but business generally was quiet. For dried fruits there was rather more inquiry. Good currants in 60-case lots were sold at 4½d. Elemes were bought at 4½d. Sultanas were offered at 4½d, but of fruit being procurable at a trifle less. Concerning the English market, Messrs. De Lissa, Crowe, and Co. write on February 17:—

Dried Fruits.—Currants: The demand in the home market has improved considerably during the last 14 days, but prices continue nominal. For the fruit arrived the reduction has been established during the month. The value of currants and sultanas continues low, however, well maintained, elemes through the steady demand for France, which has taken large quantities of large quality for the past fortnight. Later in the season a rise seems probable, and we think orders telegraphed on receipt of this will arrive some at the right time to have, especially as a continued active demand is anticipated in the home trade. Quotations: Uveda Currants, fine, 16s to 18s. Cephalonia: Patras, 16s to 17s. Gulf Elemes: A good inquiry has existed, and stocks are reduced to 16s (fine) remaining nominally 17s. Sultanas: Fine quality 16s. Lexia: Fine Cerbonchina, 18s. Sultanas: The sales mentioned here has reduced the total stocks to about 1500 boxes, and quotations available on the other side are to small lots; we expect a further reduction in the value of the remainder of the season. We quote good Vostizza, 12s 6d; fine Cerbonchina, 16s to 18s. Figs: The demand is fair, at upset rates, 30s. 6d. to 35s. 6d. Muscatels: Ordinary fruit is cheap, but small parcels of fine quality fetch higher prices, 12s to 18s. We quote home good Dehesa layers, 18s. Raisins: Prices are unchanged at 16s to 18s for fine Malaga, but the demand is better.

Apple's cause was sold at 1s 6d. in good trade sample; Yan Hamilton's was done at 2s 4½d. Some little business was done in sardines, but on the whole preserved fish was in comparatively small request. We note business in D.S.F. sardines at 6d. Colonial Salmon in tins was selling at 42s. Oxford blue done at 5½d. There is very little demand for hops. London advices to February 21 are to the effect that though the trade was rather quiet, quotations were very firm. The European Mail says that some East Kent growers had recently been able to dispose of their hops at nearly double the figure they were bid in the autumn; but, even at the improved quotations, the prices of useful to choice descriptions were moderate when compared with the rates that ruled last year—14s to £10 10s, against £2 10s. to £8 18s. In Mapids a moderate trade noticed in bottled ale; but the dealers continue more cautious of any special feature. In malt, with 4200 quarters of Scotch Barnsbarns had sold at 1s 6d to 1s 11d, fine 2s prompt, and Jamaica at 2s 6d to 3s 2d per gallon. Locally there is very little to note with respect to malts, which are still in fair request at late rates. Castor oil is rather dearer, with sales to 3s 11d per gallon. Linseed oil, Blandel, and Spanish, firm at about 3s 5½d. in drum (or half-and-half). Cable advices from Calcutta report shows that the minimum price of the manufacturers of woolpacks is 1s 10d. equal to 1s 11d to 1s 11½d. taxed here. Builders' parcels of tarpaulin, 18s 6d.

Messrs. Harris and Ackman advertise for sale by auction to-morrow (Tuesday) morning, dried fruits, at their stores, Bunn Street, Miller's Point.

Mr. J. Scott Keltie, Librarian of the Royal Geographical Society, lecturing at the London Institution, said that the trade of the British Empire might be valued. Imports and exports, at about £1,270,000,000, of which about 68 per cent. was the share of the mother country, leaving just 32 per cent. to the vast remainder of the Empire. Of the £800,000,000 credited to the rest of the Empire beyond England's shores, about 170,000,000 belonged to the seven millions odd square miles of what was called the Dominion of Settlement, with their population of 10,000,000, mostly whites. The remaining £290,000,000 must be credited to the tropical and sub-tropical possessions, which, with their 1,000,000 square miles, but with a population of some 300,000,000, among whom can only a sprinkling of whites. Of the £270,000,000 of trade allotted to the tropical possessions, about £180,000,000 belonged to the great Indian Empire. About five-sixths of India's imports of merchandise came from England, while of India's exports to Europe about three-eighths came to the United Kingdom.

The wool now offered at the fortnightly sales is mostly colonial of slice, and scoured lots from the country. The following report has been compiled:—

Harrison, Jones, and Partin, Limited, report as follows:—Since our last report we have offered at public auction about 450 bales of wool, including parcels of substances of very bad condition, which we have to report realised very little, and in a certain point competition was very active. Prices on the average were quite equal to those of our last report, and very local purchases took place in excess of market values. We have to report that the Continental and American buyers still remain in the market, and report a steady and active demand for the Australian article. Quotations fall chiefly in the list of local arrivals. During the fortnight we have offered 1,000 bales, as follows:—Bremen, 131 bales; Marseilles, 100 bales; Havre, 100 bales; Antwerp, 100 bales; Ghent, 100 bales; Boston, 100 bales; Philadelphia, 100 bales; Philadelphia, 100 bales; Boston, 100 bales; Philadelphia, 100 bales; Boston, 100 bales; Philadelphia, 100 bales; Boston
